FAQs:

What is the LCAnthology?

-The LCAnthology is a literary magazine exclusive to Llano Christian Academy attendees. Students from all grades can submit their original writings, artworks, and photography to be published in one of our volumes.

How does it work?

-Teachers will send in pictures/files of the students' works to be approved and published by the editor. If the students are in high school (grades 9-12), they may submit the works themselves, but they will still have to be approved by the editor.

What can/cannot be published?

-Any paper, short story, poem, or any other original work of literature; any painting, drawing, craft, or any other original work of art, and original photography taken by the student on or off campus. Works may have been written/created during the student's time at school or before.

-Anything written/drawn/photographed by anyone besides the student, plagiarized/downloaded from the internet, or generated by any form of artificial intelligence will be denied. Works may not include anything that could be perceived as anti-Christian.

What are the benefits of publishing on the Anthology?

-Your child will have a portfolio built up from the time they began attending until they graduate, which looks good on college applications, resumes, etc. They would be considered a published author/artist.

Meet the Founder:

Hi! I'm Hannah Previe, the founder of the LCAnthology. As a writer, it has always been a dream of mine to publish my works, so I figured that there's no time like the present. Here, you will find a place for students to express themselves and their dreams, and to glorify God through their works. But enough about the LCAnthology, this is to get to know me.

I am not entirely sure which college I plan on attending, however, I do hope to get a bachelor's degree in Marketing or Advertising. In my free time, you can find me reading, writing, doing art, playing Lord of the Rings Online, and watching movies. (I am a bit of a geek, if you can't tell.) I hope you enjoy the LCAnthology!
